

INTRODUCING THE NEPQR-RN Led Dementia Webinar Series

Join us for a three-part series to help identify your patients with Alzheimer's disease and other forms of dementia. The diagnosis of dementia, in any form, is life-changing and leads to many questions. In this three-part series, you will hear from nurse clinicians and others on how to accurately assess and develop strategies to assist patients and their families as they begin their journey through this period of life.

MORE INFORMATION ON THE NEPQR-RN Led Dementia Webinar Series

This series is designed for registered nurses working in primary care clinics. Our subject matter experts will guide you on:

- Conducting an initial nurse-led assessment of a potential dementia patient and understanding of family issues.
- How to “really listen” to the patient, their family and identify the genuine needs and concerns of both.
- Using proper assessment and evaluation tools, including a video teaching tool for nurses on how to assess patients with suspected dementia.
- Identifying and utilizing available community resources.

Session One:

An introduction to the role of nursing-led dementia assessments and how the role of narrative medicine plays into a successful assessment.

Session Two:

Features an introduction to the video assessment tool and its utilization. An interactive exercise based upon a portion of the video and from skills developed from Session One will focus on the listening portion of the assessment.

Session Three:

A discussion on available community resources and how to access them.
